

Science is more than just a collection of facts and figures; it's a way of looking at the world and asking questions about how things work. By encouraging children to think critically and to ask questions, we can help them develop the scientific mindset that will serve them well throughout their lives.