

Did you know that some of the most famous dinosaurs, like the T-Rex and the Stegosaurus, lived millions of years apart from each other? By learning about the different periods in Earth's history, you can discover what kinds of dinosaurs lived during each time period, and how they adapted to their changing environment. It's like being a detective, trying to piece together the clues of a mystery that happened a long, long time ago.