

New Zealand is part of a global network of ground-based telescopes that search for asteroids and other objects that could potentially collide with Earth. This network is called the "Spaceguard Centre".