

Once upon a time, there was a young fox named Xavier who loved to explore. He would x-ray the sky for xylophones and xanthic stars. Xavier was always excited to find new and exciting things, like a box of xylitol or an extra-large xebec. He even found an old, rusty axe!