

Tommy and Tina were two TV-loving twins. They treasured their time together, watching their favorite shows. They thought the tales were terrific and the characters were charming. Together they'd talk about the tales they'd seen, trying to top each other's tales of television thrills