Cooking and baking can teach you about different cultures and cuisines from around the world. By trying new recipes from different parts of the world, you can learn about new flavors and ingredients, and discover the amazing variety of foods that people enjoy.