Did you know that many animals are in danger of going extinct? From tigers to sea turtles, many animals are facing threats like habitat loss, climate change, and poaching. By learning about conservation, you can discover the amazing ways that scientists and conservationists are working to protect these animals and their habitats.